Introduction

This volume contains papers from the main track of the 13th ITAT conference, which took place on September 11-15, 2013 at Donovaly, Slovakia. ITAT is a computer science conference with the primary goal of presenting new results of young researchers and doctoral students from Slovakia and the Czech Republic. The conference serves as a platform for exchange of information within the community, and also provides opportunities for informal meetings of the participants in a mountainous regions of the Czech Republic and Slovakia. The traditional topics of the conference include software engineering, data processing and knowledge representation, information security, theoretical foundations of computer science, computational intelligence, distributed computing, natural language processing, and computer science education. The conference accepts papers describing original previously unpublished results, significant work-in-progress reports, as well as reviews of special topics of interest to the conference audience.

The conference program this year included the main track of contributed papers, workshops, posters, and three invited lectures. Overall, 44 papers and abstracts were submitted to all conference tracks. These proceedings present 15 papers of the main track which were selected by the program committee based on at least three reviews by the program committee members and anonymous referees. This volume also contains abstract of three invited lectures by Dávid Pál (Google New York), Eduard Kejnovský (The Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic), and Richard Královič (Google Zürich).

As a new feature this year, three specialized workshops were organized as a part of the conference:

- Data Mining and User Preference Learning (organized by Ladislav Peška and Peter Vojtáš)
- Bioinformatics in Genomics and Proteomics (organized by Matej Lexa)
- Computational Intelligence and Data Mining (organized by Martin Holeňa)

Papers and abstracts from these workshops, as well as poster abstracts, are presented in a separate volume.

I would like to thank all program committee members, anonymous referees, conference organizers, invited speakers, and authors of the papers for helping to create an exciting scientific program for ITAT 2013.
