

motivated students and more practices give better results. This fact discovered by students, and they would like more e-learning material from other subjects, too. This motivates us to produce other e-learning materials.

References

1. Hazem M. El-Bakry, and Nikos Mastorakis (2009) Design of Quality Assurance Management System for EUniversities, Proc. of Education and Educational Technology Conference 2009 (EDU'09), University of Genova, Genova, Italy, October 17-19, pp. 226 -238.
2. Ahmed A. Saleh, Hazem M. El-Bakry, Taghreed T. Asfour and Nikos Mastorakis (2010) Adaptive E-Learning Tools for Numbering Systems, Proc. of 9th WSEAS International Conference on Applications of Computer Engineering (ACE'10), Penang, Malaysia, March 23-25, pp. 293-298.
3. Herdon M, Lengyel P, Szilágyi R (2009) Research on open source e-learning tools and agricultural applications. In: Bregt A, Wolfert S, Wien J E, Lokhorst C (szerk.) EFITA Conference '09. Wageningen, Hollandia, 2009.07.06-2009.07.08. Wageningen: Wageningen Academic Publishers, pp. 839-846.
4. M. Bakó, P. Lengyel (2009) Comparison of the French and Hungarian distance learning systems of agro-economical studies, Proceeding of Confenis 2009 Conference, Győr, 28-30 October
5. Lengyel P, Herdon M, Szilágyi R, (2010) Portal for knowledge of agricultural informatics. In: Alexander B Sideridis, Miklós Herdon, László Várallyai (ed..) Agricultural Informatics 2010. Budapest; Debrecen, Magyarország, Magyar Agrárinformatikai Szövetség, pp. 37-42.
6. L. Aszalós (2009) Online and offline logic tests, Proceedings of The Ninth International Conference on Technology in Mathematics Teaching, Metz,